OVERVIEW

The Northwest Territories & Nunavut Workers' Compensation Appeals Tribunal is an independent quasi-judicial tribunal, which hears appeals of decisions made by the Workers' Safety and Compensation Commission's (the "WSCC") Review Committee. Review Committee decisions may be appealed by a Worker or an Employer who is impacted by the Review Committee decision. The Tribunal may only hear matters for which the Review Committee has made a decision. One Tribunal Member normally adjudicates an appeal, however a panel of three may be struck to hear an appeal.

The Tribunal may confirm, vary or reverse any decision of the WSCC's Review Committee. While the Tribunal may make its own procedural rules, it must follow and apply the Workers' Compensation Act (the Act) of both the Northwest Territories and Nunavut. The Tribunal must also follow WSCC policies when deciding an appeal unless the Tribunal determines a policy does not apply to a case.

The workers' compensation system provides compulsory, no-fault mutual insurance for workers and employers. One of the corner stones of this system is the immunity from action. This means employers and workers cannot be sued as a result of a workplace accident. There are however very specific circumstances where such immunity may be challenged. Applications from any party to a court action may apply to the Tribunal for a determination of whether a person is immune from action under the Act.

The Northwest Territories Minister responsible for the Workers' Safety & Compensation Commission appoints Tribunal Members in consultation with the Nunavut Minister responsible for the Workers' Safety & Compensation Commission.

TRIBUNAL MEMBERS AND STAFF – 2021

Colin Baile – Chairperson (Yellowknife)

Michael Chandler – (Iqaluit)

Cayley Thomas – (Yellowknife)

Cynthia Levy – (Yellowknife)

Maria Jobse – Registrar/General Manager

OPERATIONS

During this reporting period, one appeal was received. This is far below our annual average number of appeals. The appeal received this year was made by a Worker.

Of the two appeal decisions rendered, one of the Review Committee decisions was reversed, and one was upheld.

FINANCIAL OPERATIONS

In 2021 the Tribunal's total expenditures were $352,655 which was 70% of the Tribunal's budget of $499,246.

TRIBUNAL MANDATE AND PROCEDURAL AUTHORITIES

The Appeals Tribunal (the Tribunal) is governed by the Workers' Compensation Act (the Act) of each Territory. The Tribunal's authority is defined in the Acts as hearing appeals of decisions made by the WSCC Review Committee. The Tribunal also hears applications under Section 63 of the Act to determine whether an employer is barred from action.

The Act allows the Tribunal to create its own procedures. These procedures are outlined in the Rules of the Appeals Tribunal. The Tribunal is ordinarily not bound by WSCC decisions or opinions. The Tribunal must apply WSCC policies where the Tribunal determines the policy applies to the circumstances of an appeal.

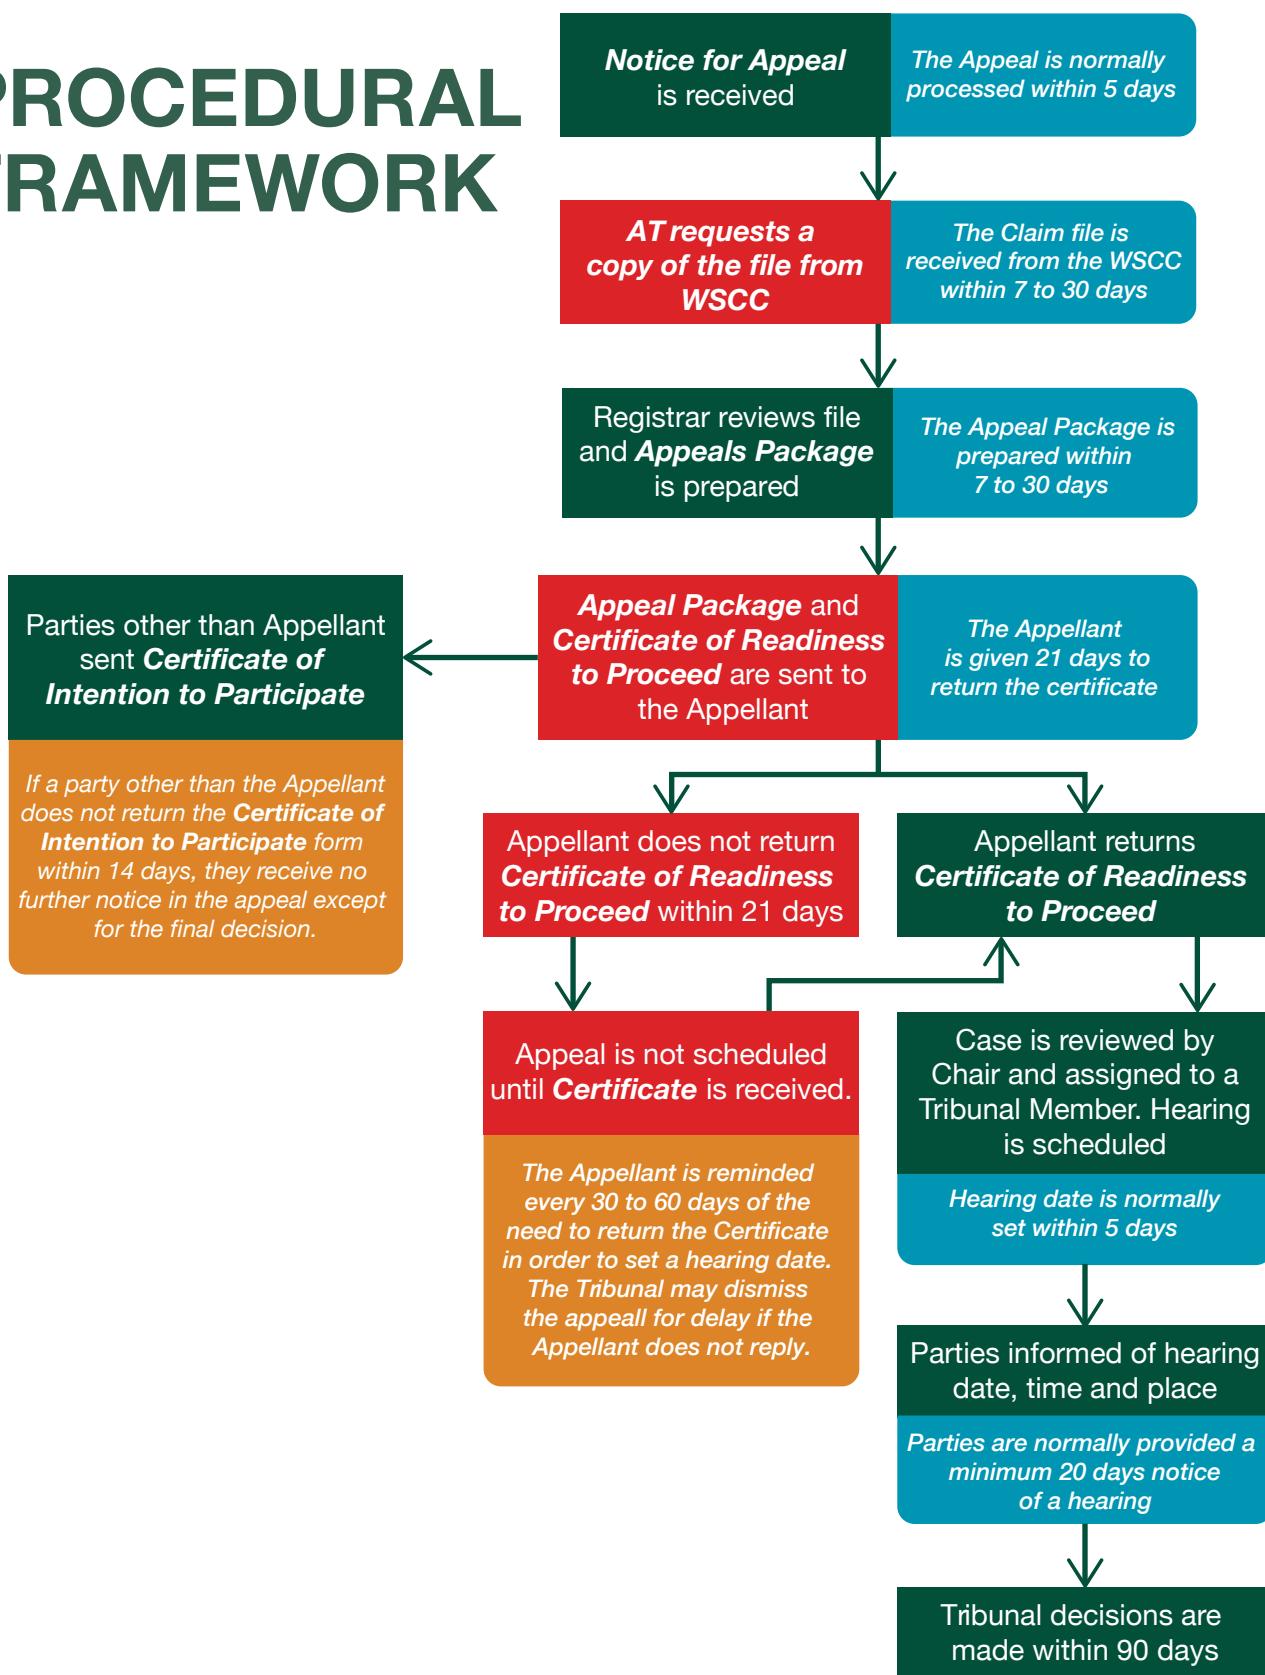

The Tribunal is an independent body, being administratively and legally separate from the WSCC.

The Appeals Tribunal is guided by the Act, principles of procedural fairness, and court decisions. Within this framework, the Tribunal endeavors to maintain a balance between fairness, efficiency, and access to justice.

Appeals are most often heard by documentary submissions, however hearings may also be conducted by teleconference, videoconference, or in-person. Tribunal decisions are written. The Act requires decisions to be made within 90 days of receiving all the evidence.

Tribunal decisions are final and conclusive. The Act provides for the WSCC's Governance Council to direct the Tribunal to rehear an appeal should the Governance Council determine the Tribunal has not properly applied one of its policies or failed to comply with the Act/Regulations. The Tribunal may reconsider a decision on the basis of new evidence. Appeals may be dismissed for delay of proceeding where the Tribunal determines procedural deadlines have not been met.

TIME FROM FILING TO DECISION

The time required for appeals to be completed continues to decrease.

Note: this time includes that attributed to the activities of Appellants and WSCC, as well as the Tribunal.

A line graph titled "TIME FROM FILING TO DECISION" showing the average number of days from filing to decision from 2017 to 2021. The Y-axis represents "Average Days" ranging from 0 to 350 in increments of 50. The X-axis represents years from 2017 to 2021. The data points are: 2017 (199), 2018 (249), 2019 (337), 2020 (251), and 2021 (217). The trend shows an increase from 2017 to 2019, followed by a decrease through 2021.

DECISIONS OF 2021

The Workers' Compensation Acts requires the Appeals Tribunal to conduct hearings in camera. Because Tribunal decisions contain personal information such as medical and financial information, they are not made public.

The following are summaries of the Tribunal's decisions made in 2021.

1 Decision 20-001 | Entitlement | WSCC decision was reversed

- Worker Appeal
- The Employer did not participate
- The WSCC did not participate

The Worker was employed as a heavy equipment operator. The Worker's concussion-like symptoms were attributed to two workplace incidents over a one-week period in which the Worker fell from the cab of the vehicle. The WSCC accepted the claim for the first incident as a back and neck strain. Two years after the acceptance of the claim, the Employer sought a review of that decision. The WSCC Review Committee varied the acceptance decision and found the second incident should not have been accepted and the first incident did not result in a concussion. The Worker appealed the Review Committee's decision.

The Appeals Tribunal found the second incident did occur and the Worker's diagnosis of ongoing symptoms which were consistent with a concussion. The Worker was entitled to compensation for the second workplace incident.

2 Decision 20-002 | Continuing Temporary Disability Benefits/Continuing Medical Aid | WSCC decision was upheld

- Worker Appeal
- The Employer did not participate
- The WSCC did not participate

The Worker suffered a workplace back injury for which a claim for compensation was accepted. The WSCC determined several months later that the Worker was fit to return to work and discontinued the Worker's benefits. The Worker sought a review of that decision. The WSCC Review Committee found the Worker was not entitled to any further financial benefits or medical treatment, but was entitled to vocational rehabilitation benefits. The Worker appealed that decision.

The Worker sought additional diagnostic testing and physiotherapy as well as continuing Total Temporary Disability Benefits. The Worker argued that the MRI images used by WSCC to terminate his benefits were not of his back, but of someone else. The Appeal Tribunal found that the MRI images were the Worker's and therefore no further diagnostics were required. The MRI report and Rehabilitation reports confirmed the extent of the Worker's injury and did not support continuing medical treatment or Total Temporary Disability Benefits. The WSCC's decision was upheld.

VUE D'ENSEMBLE

Le Tribunal d'appel des accidents du travail des Territoires du Nord-Ouest (T.N.-O.) et du Nunavut est un tribunal quasi judiciaire indépendant qui entend les appels de décisions prises par le Comité de révision de la Commission de la sécurité au travail et de l'indemnisation des travailleurs (la « CSTIT » ou la « Commission »). Tant les travailleurs que les employeurs peuvent interjeter appel. Le Tribunal peut uniquement entendre des questions à propos desquelles le Comité de révision a pris une décision. Les appels sont entendus par un membre du Tribunal, mais un groupe de trois membres peut se voir confier le mandat d'entendre un appel.

Le Tribunal peut confirmer, modifier ou annuler une décision du Comité de révision de la CSTIT. Bien que le Tribunal puisse établir ses propres règles de procédure, il doit respecter et appliquer la Loi sur l'indemnisation des travailleurs (la Loi) des T.N.-O. et du Nunavut.

Le système d'indemnisation des travailleurs fournit une assurance mutuelle obligatoire sans égard à la responsabilité pour les travailleurs et employeurs. L'une des pierres angulaires du système est l'immunité contre toute poursuite. Cela signifie qu'on ne peut pas poursuivre les employeurs et travailleurs à la suite d'un accident de travail. Toutefois, il existe des situations très particulières lorsque l'immunité est contestée. Toute partie d'une poursuite peut s'adresser au Tribunal en vue de déterminer si, en vertu de la Loi, une personne est à l'abri de toute action en justice.

MEMBRES ET PERSONNEL DU TRIBUNAL – 2021

Colin Baile – Président (Yellowknife)

Michael Chandler (Iqaluit)

Cayley Thomas (Yellowknife)

Cynthia Levy (Yellowknife)

Maria Jobse – Greffière/directrice générale

ACTIVITÉS

Au cours de la période couverte par le présent rapport, un appel a été reçu, soit bien en deçà de notre moyenne annuelle. L'appel reçu cette année a été interjeté par un travailleur.

Des deux décisions d'appel rendues cette année, l'une du Comité de révision a été renversée et l'autre a été confirmée.

OPÉRATIONS FINANCIÈRES

En 2021, les dépenses totales du Tribunal se sont élevées à 352 655 $, une somme correspondant à 70 % du budget du Tribunal (499 246 $).

MANDAT ET AUTORITÉ EN MATIÈRE DE PROCÉDURE

Le Tribunal d'appel (le Tribunal) est régi par la Loi sur l'indemnisation des travailleurs (la Loi) de chaque territoire. Le pouvoir conféré au Tribunal est défini dans la Loi. Il s'agit de l'audition d'appels relativement à des décisions du Comité de révision de la CSTIT. Le Tribunal entend aussi des affaires en vertu de l'article 63 de la Loi afin de déterminer si un employeur fait obstacle à une action.

La Loi permet au Tribunal d'établir ses propres procédures. Ces procédures sont décrites dans les règles du tribunal d'appel. Le Tribunal n'est habituellement pas lié par les décisions ou les opinions de la Commission. Il doit appliquer les politiques de la Commission lorsqu'il détermine que l'une de celles-ci s'applique aux circonstances d'un appel.

Le Tribunal est un organisme indépendant, séparé de la Commission sur les plans administratif et légal.

Le Tribunal d'appel est guidé par la Loi, les principes de l'équité procédurale et les décisions judiciaires. À l'intérieur de ce cadre, il tente de préserver un équilibre entre l'équité, l'efficacité et l'accès à la justice.

Les appels peuvent être entendus sous la forme de soumissions documentaires ou par téléconférence ou vidéoconférence, ou encore en personne. Les décisions du Tribunal sont écrites. La Loi exige que les décisions soient rendues dans les 90 jours suivant la réception des éléments de preuve.

Les décisions du Tribunal sont définitives et péremptoires. La Loi prévoit l'intervention du Conseil de gouvernance de la Commission afin de demander au Tribunal de procéder à une nouvelle audience s'il détermine que celui-ci n'a pas appliqué adéquatement la politique ou a omis de se conformer à des lois et à des règlements. Le Tribunal peut réexaminer une décision à la lumière d'éléments de preuve nouveaux. Un appel peut être rejeté en raison d'un retard dans le pourvoi si le Tribunal estime que les délais de procédure n'ont pas été respectés.

DÉCISIONS DE 2021

La Loi sur l'indemnisation des travailleurs exige du Tribunal d'appel qu'il tienne ses audiences à huis clos. Les décisions du Tribunal ne sont pas rendues publiques, car elles renferment des renseignements personnels, notamment de nature médicale et financière.

Figurent ci-dessous des résumés des décisions rendues par le Tribunal en 2021.

1

Décision 20-001 | admissibilité | La décision de la CSTIT a été annulée.

- L'appel a été interjeté par un travailleur.
- L'employeur n'a pas participé.
- La CSTIT n'a pas participé.

Le travailleur était employé comme conducteur d'équipement lourd. Les symptômes de type commotion cérébrale ont été attribués à deux incidents survenus sur le chantier en l'espace d'une semaine, au cours desquels le travailleur est tombé de la cabine du véhicule. La CSTIT a accepté la demande d'indemnisation pour maux de dos et de cou pour le premier incident. Deux ans après l'acceptation de cette demande, l'employeur a demandé une révision de la décision. Le Comité de révision de la CSTIT a modifié la décision, estimant que le deuxième incident n'aurait pas dû être accepté et que le premier n'avait pas entraîné une commotion cérébrale. Le travailleur a fait appel de la décision du Comité de révision.

Le Tribunal d'appel a constaté que le deuxième incident s'était effectivement produit et que le diagnostic du travailleur faisait état de symptômes continus qui étaient compatibles avec une commotion cérébrale. Le travailleur a donc eu droit à une indemnisation pour le deuxième incident survenu en milieu de travail.

2 Décision 20-002 | Maintien des prestations pour incapacité temporaire et de l'aide médicale fournie | La décision de la CSTIT a été maintenue.

- L'appel a été interjeté par un travailleur.
- L'employeur n'a pas participé.
- La CSTIT n'a pas participé.

Le travailleur a subi une blessure au dos en milieu de travail pour laquelle une demande d'indemnisation a été acceptée. La CSTIT a déterminé plusieurs mois plus tard que le travailleur était apte à reprendre le travail et a mis fin au versement de prestations. Le travailleur a demandé une révision de cette décision. Le Comité de révision de la CSTIT a estimé que le travailleur n'avait pas droit à d'autres sommes, ni à des traitements médicaux, mais qu'il était admissible à des prestations de réadaptation professionnelle. Le travailleur a interjeté appel de la décision.

Le travailleur a demandé des tests diagnostiques et des séances de physiothérapie supplémentaires ainsi que le maintien de ses prestations pour incapacité temporaire totale. Le travailleur a fait valoir que les images IRM utilisées par la CSTIT pour mettre fin à ses prestations ne correspondaient pas à son dos, mais à celui d'une autre personne. Le Tribunal d'appel a conclu que les images IRM étaient bien celles du travailleur et que, par conséquent, aucun autre diagnostic n'était nécessaire. Le rapport d'IRM et les rapports de réadaptation ont confirmé l'étendue de la blessure du travailleur et n'ont pas justifié le maintien de traitements médicaux ni de prestations pour incapacité temporaire totale. La décision de la CSTIT a été maintenue.
