These programs provide financial assistance to support community-based search and rescue functions and may be accessed on an application basis by eligible applicants.

The CERP training is a three-day course that provides municipalities with an all-hazards approach framework to assist in planning and organizing during an emergency. The training provides communities with the tools and knowledge necessary to respond to any potential emergency. Communities learn how to identify risks and the probability of occurrence using a Hazard Identification and Risk Assessment (HIRA).

In addition, the department provided Search and Rescue Training through the Municipal Training Organization (MTO) in six communities for a total of 54 participants.

Fire Prevention Strategy

The department provides financial support promoting public awareness to reduce fire losses and support municipal fire departments through programs that increase their capacity and professionalism in delivering fire prevention programs in Nunavut communities.

During the 2023-24 Fiscal Year, the department issued a contribution agreement to MTO to facilitate and deliver training to fire departments across Nunavut. A total of 156 successful applicants throughout the region received instruction in ten courses.

The outcomes are multi-faceted, ranging from improved infrastructure and enhanced community services to the promotion of innovation, skills, and well-being. As CGS navigated the complexities of a rapidly evolving world alongside the Government of Nunavut as a whole, the strategic allocation of grants and contributions was increasingly important. CGS provides grants and contributions to organizations for specific purposes that align with the department's objectives. The grants and contributions provide financial support or assistance without expecting direct goods or services returned to the GN, differing from contractual agreements typically resulting in the exchange of goods, services, or money. Moving forward, a continued commitment to transparent, equitable, and impactful funding will undoubtedly contribute to the realization of shared goals and aspirations, leaving a legacy of positive change for generations to come.
